Rapid Deployment for Critical EEG

Neurocritical care has become an important aspect of life in the ER and ICU.

There has been an increase in the number of neurologically compromised patients arriving to the hospital in various states of consciousness. In these cases, it is critical to assess the brain health as quickly as possible. For neurologically compromised patients, eliminating the wait for a routine EEG can have significant impact on the course of treatment and improve patient outcomes.

With improved patient outcomes in mind, Nihon Kohden has developed VitalEEG™, a new standard of care for EEG in the ER and ICU. This low channel-count, wireless EEG headset can be rapidly deployed by any ER or ICU nurse and remotely monitored by an EEG technologist or physician. VitalEEG provides the crucial data that will allow the physician to properly assess and determine the best course of treatment for their critical patient while utilizing their limited resources in the most effective way possible.
